

Morris Rees and Sarah Butterfield also migrated to Frederick County, Virginia from southeastern Pennsylvania. They arrived in Frederick County, Virginia about 1753, purchasing land a short distance north of the home of Thomas Rees and Margaret Bowen. The Quaker meeting records document their arrival, and their land purchases verify the dates.

Morris and Sarah, like Thomas and Margaret, were affected by the French and Indian War, which drove many families of the area to move eastward or back to Pennsylvania. Quaker Meeting records show several trips back and forth to Pennsylvania from Frederick County, Virginia.

Their children were:

- John Rees 1720-1791, married Lydia Hastings
- Morris Rees II 1721-1800, married Sarah Hackney
- Jacob Rees 1723-1789, married Hannah Kirk (it is probable that Hannah was his second wife)
- Mary Rees c1726-after 1794, married 1) Job Hastings and 2) Jesse Faulkner, Sr.
- Margaret Rees c1728-c1777, married Archibald Job
- David Rees 1730-1812, married Martha Chandler
- Hannah Rees c 1732-c1803, married Thomas Rees (son of Thomas Rees and Margaret Bowen)
- Thomas Rees 1734-1819, married Margaret Rees (daughter of Thomas Rees and Margaret Bowen)
